

I will present an overview of two on-going projects. The first project aims to determine whether it is easier for listeners to recognize words in their own voice compared with another speaker's voice. The goal of the second project is to provide a detailed characterization of phonetic convergence between two speakers in an interactive task at the acoustic, articulatory, and cerebral level.